

Coptic Homilies
in the Dialect of Upper Egypt
Translated by E. A. Wallis Budge

Total running time: 04:44:29

The present work contains the Coptic versions of ten Greek homilies on fasting, repentance, the end of the world, the incarnation, etc., which are attributed to John the Faster, Athanasius of Alexandria, Proclus of Cyzicus, Eusebius and Basil of Caesarea, and Archbishop Theophilus. The texts were translated from the dialect of Upper Egypt into English by E. A. Wallis Budge. Linguistically, the texts are of great importance, and they form a mass of material which is of the highest value to Egyptologists generally. From a theological point of view, the texts are no less interesting, for they illustrate Egyptian theology in its Christian form, and reveal the opinions which were current among the dwellers in monasteries.

This recording is in the public domain and may be reproduced, distributed, or modified without permission. For more information or to volunteer, visit librivox.org. Cover picture by an anonymous painter (circa 1515). Copyright expired in U.S. Cover design by David Purdy. This design is in the public domain.

Coptic Homilies in the Dialect of Upper Egypt

Coptic Homilies in the Dialect of Upper Egypt